Its population was 4,157,545 in 1900 and 3,672,323 in 1890. In 1910 the density of population for the entire state was 117 per square mile the corresponding figures for 1900 being 102.1. —The demand for health marriages grows. Following the lead of the Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, author and lecturer, who announced that he would never marry another couple unless physicians' statements as to good health were produced with the license the Probate Judges' State Association has prepared a bill for submission to the legislature of Kansas embodying this feature. The federated churches of Cleveland, Ohio, have recommended that the same be applied by all ministers in that city, and have also taken steps to have a state law adopted embodying these features. Dean Sumner of St. Paul's Cathedral, Chicago, was the pioneer in this method of racial betterment and wherever his famous ruling has been investigated it has been approved and adopted.

—The hay crop this year is much larger than it has been for a number of years past claim the farmers of this county, and despite that fact, it is said the product will bring a higher price than it did last year. The hay grown this year is of a very fine quality, and is said to be very nutritious. Nearly every farmer in this vicinity states that his crop is unusually free from weeds and other foreign matter, and on that account feels that his feed is worth more than it has been in the past. At the present time most of the farmers are getting $15 a ton for their hay in the meadows, while it was bringing at this time last year, but $14 a ton. If the price advances as rapidly in the next few months as it has in the ones just gone by, the hay raised this season may be selling for $25 to $30 a ton at the winter markets.

HIGH COST VS. PRODUCTION.

The country is much encouraged by the announcement of a promising condition of the crops. It is reported that the yield of staples will be better than for several years, and with the intimation that this is certain to result in lowering the cost of the necessities of life, force is given to the argument that the principal cause of our trouble is underproduction, that the increasing population of the cities is consuming the products with a rapidity out of comparison with the yield of the soil.

As evidence in support of this claim it is shown that the urban population of the country has grown from 29.5 per cent in 1880 to 46.3 in 1910, and that the rural population has decreased during the same period from 70.5 to 53.7. This increase on one side and loss on the other has kept up during the thirty years, and the result must be a steadily growing number of consumers pitted against a steadily lessening number of producers. If this condition is continued, it is plain to be seen that the foodstuffs, on which the people depend to keep body and soul together, are calculated to grow less in quantity, while the demand grows stronger, and, based on the rule of supply and demand, there can be no lowering of the cost.

Sound reasoning ought to carry conviction that this is not a political question, and that it cannot be remedied by legislation. Political parties may discuss it in their platforms and pledge their support to the people in bringing about a change for the better, but their efforts will be impotent unless they go directly to the seat of the trouble and bring production up to the demand. When people can be induced to go back to the farms and devote their energies toward production, rather than consumption, the betterment will soon become apparent.

This is the only solution, the only method by which the high cost of living can be turned backward, and when the people themselves meet the issue there will be no longer any need for political commissions to investigate and recommend.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE COUNTY FAIR

Evidence is not lacking that the people are interested in the coming county fair to be held in Canfield Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 10, 11 and 12. Requests for premium lists are coming from all directions and hundreds of copies have been mailed out. But the secretary is well provided with lists and will be pleased to send a copy to all who desire one. The exhibits promise to excel in many respects those of last year, and all who attend the fair will be well repaid for the time spent. The hall displays alone will be worth seeing, and much information may be gained to say nothing of the pleasure to be found. There will be three fast races Wednesday and Thursday for increased purses offered. One of the features of the fair will be the free exhibit from the Ohio Experiment Station at Wooster. There will be illustrated lectures each day on topics of interest to tillers of the soil.

OVER 11,000,000,000 CIGARETS SMOKED

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-EIGHT COFFIN NAILS FOR EACH IN AMERICA.

Washington, Aug. 14.—If cigar smoking is as deadly as some of the ants make out, this country will soon be inhabited exclusively by imbeciles.

Over Eleven Billion Smoked. During the fiscal year 1912 the tidy number of 11,221,624,084 cigarettes were smoked in this country, an average of about 128 for every man, woman and child. Inasmuch as not all men and women and few children before the walking age smoke cigarettes, the average consumption for those who do is considerably larger than 128.

This eleven billion odd is an increase of two billions over the consumption of 1911, and Secretary McVeigh and his department officials confess they cannot explain this vast jump.

And this is not all that might be used in answering the famous problem, "What is the matter with the United States?"

Rum and Whisky Record.

Stored in various warehouses at the opening of the fiscal year 1913 are 263,786,070 gallons of whisky and rum, the greatest on record. Kentucky alone has 158,000,000 gallons laid away for reptile bites, more than the whole United States had in storage 11 years ago.

Of this total storage, 138,000,000 gallons were produced during 1911, or 13,000,000 gallons more than in 1910. As an offset to these scandalous figures, however, it is pointed out that the consumption of rum and whisky for 1912 was 133,377,468 gallons, nearly 500,000 gallons less than the record year of 1907.

The consumption of beer for 1912 was only 62,108,733 barrels, a decrease of 1,108,000 barrels as compared with 1911.

STEEL TRUST FOE IS BROKE

Man Who Organized Company to Fight Corporation Files Petition in Bankruptcy.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Franklin A. Umsted, who in 1903 organized in New York a $15,000,000 steel company to fight the United States Steel corporation, has just filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court. He gave his liabilities as $1,551,860 and his assets as $210 in household furniture.

The liabilities included money borrowed to finance the company. It is said the late United States Senator A. J. McLaurin of Mississippi lost $40,000 in the company. Other large claims scheduled are: International Trust Co., Baltimore, $105,000; American Finance Co., New York, $100,000, and the Union Trust Co., New York, $225,000. Umsted organized the company under the laws of Maine. His idea was to combine all the available independent steel properties, including the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co. of Alabama.

TAKE NEGRO FROM JUDGE, LYNCH HIM

ARMED MEN, AFTER SEIZING SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY, RIDDLE BODY WITH BULLETS.

Columbus, Ga., Aug. 14.—Nearly 100 armed men invaded the court house at 6 o'clock in the afternoon, cowed Judge Gilbert and the other officials, seized a 16-year-old negro boy who had just been convicted and sentenced for manslaughter, carried him to the negro quarter of the city, and there shot him to death.

Accused of Killing White Boy. The victim of the mob was T. E. Cotton, who was accused of killing Cedron Land, a white boy, near this town two months ago in a quarrel. Land was found in a field, his face riddled with bird shot. The negro was arrested and was said to have partially confessed. He was tried, found guilty of manslaughter, and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

Judge Gilbert had hardly finished pronouncing sentence when a shrill whistle sounded in court, and armed men came trooping into the room with their pistols drawn. They were joined by confederates in the court room. The officials of the court and the deputy sheriffs were forced to throw up their hands and keep them up.

Body Riddled With Bullets. While a few members of the mob guarded the terrified court officials the others took the shivering little negro from the courthouse to the street. In the street the mob formed about the boy and marched toward the principal streets to the negro quarter. There the boy was shot to death, hundreds of bullets being fired into his body.

While the mob was killing the boy the negroes in the quarter covered in their homes, fearing they would be attacked.

The men of the mob wore no masks and many of them were recognized. The coroner held an inquest but no verdict was returned. Judge Gilbert announces he will begin an inquisition.

MURDER CASE DEVELOPMENTS

Three Well-Known Men in New York May Be Arrested Following Evidence Given by Witness.

New York, Aug. 14.—New evidence, which turned the finger of accusation on high officials and other men well known in public life, heretofore unsuspected, was laid before the grand jury at its inquiry into the murder of Herman Rosenthal and its subsequent overshadowing developments—the graft alliance between police and gamblers.

After 18 witnesses had been examined by the grand jury the information came from a positive source that among the new names obtained, and which will probably figure in early arrests, are those of the proprietor of one of New York's leading hotels, a man known in this country and in Europe; one of the best-known inspectors in the police department and a lawyer-politician of prominence.

PARALYSIS

A loss of motion or sensation in a living part or member.

The drug Atropine, commonly called drops, is a deadly poison and when dropped into the eye paralyzes the muscles in the eye. There is as much reason to paralyze the feet when having shoes fitted, as there is to paralyze the eye when having glasses fitted. Never allow any doctor to drop Atropine into your eyes when examining them for glasses, and especially in your children's eyes because the eyes never are as good after and it is not necessary.

PROFIT AND LOSS

Fence Corners Properly Farmed Would Feed Millions Now Hungry.

How can a black cow, fed on green grass, give white milk? The Bible does not relate all the miracles. How can a citizen become progressive and keep in touch with the world that moves? The man who is willing to spend a dollar where it will return to him more than one hundred cents worth of benefit is keeping step with common sense and marching to the music of good investment. The man or woman who travels and goes away from home once in a while often finds a bargain counter.

Last year, at the Ohio State Fair, a farmer purchased one hog that paid his expenses to Columbus several times over, besides improving the breed of hogs in his neighborhood. A city man who owned a farm, while in the great Agricultural Hall at the State Fair in 1910 discovered a variety of corn that added several bushels to his yield per acre in 1911. He made more than the legal rate of interest on the money which he spent by coming to Ohio's big Exposition.

The State Fair is a great picture, painted by the brush of toil and sweat, dipped in brain and sweat.

Some farmers farm because they have to, while others farm because farming pays. Some business men are in business because they can't get out; others are in business because they are making money. Few of us work for our health. Many a patriot is a friend of the dear people at their expense. The Exposition helps every branch of business and tends to add to the profits of human endeavor. The State Fair is the guide-board pointing to higher ideals and better methods. The Exposition is the store-house of what has been accomplished in all the centuries. Dull indeed is he who would neglect an opportunity to see the finished products of all the ages. The time taken to visit the State Fair is well spent. The money required is a small amount and well invested, with large dividends certain. Many things are done which do not pay a profit, but seeing and studying the Ohio Exposition will pay more than a hundred per cent. The date is the last week in August. It will pay to borrow the money, if that be necessary, to come. For catalog and information address
